Charleston,
South Carolina

The 1965 Tree Trail is presented to you our friends, co-workers, and members of the medical and nursing profession in an effort to reveal a glimpse of the making of the young woman beneath the crisp white cap and uniform.

The many aspects of nursing, those gratifying, endearing, and sorrowful, affect the molding of the character of the young woman. In these three years of training, "... from a lively [illegible] more serious endeavors," she learns to give of [illegible] receives the priceless inner warmth in [illegible] band or the high honored seat. It's [illegible] gives with all this."

IN APPRECIATION . . .

The age at which we enter this school of nursing as "probies" is a very impressionable one. We come with many and varied ideas of what the nursing profession holds for us. One cannot estimate the effect the members of this profession which we aspire to belong have upon us. It is they who must inspire the highest ideals of nursing in us by their example.

We grow to admire and respect some of our instructors in particular. The staff proudly dedicates the 1965 TRES ANNI to

MRS. MARTHA BARKER

Her efforts in the classroom, the hospital, and with the Student Government Association have been of great value to all of us students. By her example of true womanliness and an ever-willing helping hand she has become endeared to us and we are truly indebted to her for all that she has given us, both tangible and intangible.

H. RAWLING PRATT-THOMAS, A.B., M.D., LL.D.
President, Medical College of South Carolina
Professor of Pathology

Dr. Pratt-Thomas was born in Barnsley, England in 1913. He was reared in Sumter County, South Carolina, and received his A.B. degree from Davidson College in 1934 and his M.D. degree from the Medical College of South Carolina in 1938. He received his internship and residency training at the Cincinnati General Hospital.

He is a member of the American Medical Association, College of American Pathologists and American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists. He is a former chairman of the Section of Pathology of the Southern Medical Association.

Dr. Pratt-Thomas is a Diplomate of the American Board of Pathology and is the consultant in pathology at the Charleston Naval Hospital. He has written some thirty-five scientific articles and is a member of the National Honorary Scholastic Medical Society, Alpha Omega Alpha. He has served as Chairman of the Department of Pathology and Dean of the School of Medicine at the Medical College of South Carolina.

In the spring of 1964, he was elected a Fellow in the American College of Physicians.

MISS RUTH CHAMBERLIN, R.N., B.S., M.A.
Dean of the School of Nursing
Professor of Nursing

Miss Chamberlin, a graduate of the Mt. Siani Hospital School of Nursing, received her B.S. and M.A. degrees in Nursing Education and Administration from Teacher's College, Columbia University in New York City.

Miss Chamberlin has served as Night Supervisor at Mt. Siani Hospital, Assistant Director of Nursing at Rochester General Hospital and as Educational Director and Director of Nursing at the Syracuse University School of Nursing. In 1937 she was appointed Education Director of the Medical College of South Carolina School of Nursing and also was Director of Nursing Service at Roper Hospital and Director of the School of Nursing in 1949. The title of Dean was given in 1949 though the position remained a dual role until 1953 when the Dean of the School was expected to devote full time to the school, a responsibility which she still carries. During World War II, she held the rank of Major in the Army Nurse Corps.

After active participation in a number of committees, Miss Chamberlin became the first president of the South Carolina State League for Nursing Education and is a past president of the State Nurses' Association. She served as nurse representative for the State Nurses' Association to the Executive Committee of The State Board of Health from 1949 to 1963.

Miss Chamberlin is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary society for teachers, and appears in several "Who's Who" publications including the first edition of "Who's Who of American Women" in 1958. She is a charter member of the Altrusa Club of Greater Charleston and has served as a member of the Board of Directors, Historian, and Parliamentarian.

PROLOGUE

MOSO

I was thinking back to my high school days,
And how nursing had entered my mind.
And I thought of the caps and the treatment trays,
And the letters R.N. I would sign.
I thought of the uniforms white as can be,
And the pin with the letters engraved.

Yet, how could I know, or how could I see
That nursing's a road that you pave.
It isn't your name, it isn't your looks,
Or your voice, or your hair or your eyes;
It isn't just marks, or it isn't just books,
Or the early hours you rise.

It's the smile that a patient has when you're done,
It's the "Thank you" he gives for his life,
It's the cry of the newborn as he becomes one
Of this great new world and its strife.
It's the mother whose family awaits her return
Or the father who's too young to die.

It's the "big and little" things that you learn
It's the many times you ask "why?"
It isn't the cap but the head underneath
That makes a nurse what she is.
It's not the black band or the high honored seat.
It's the heart that she gives with all this.

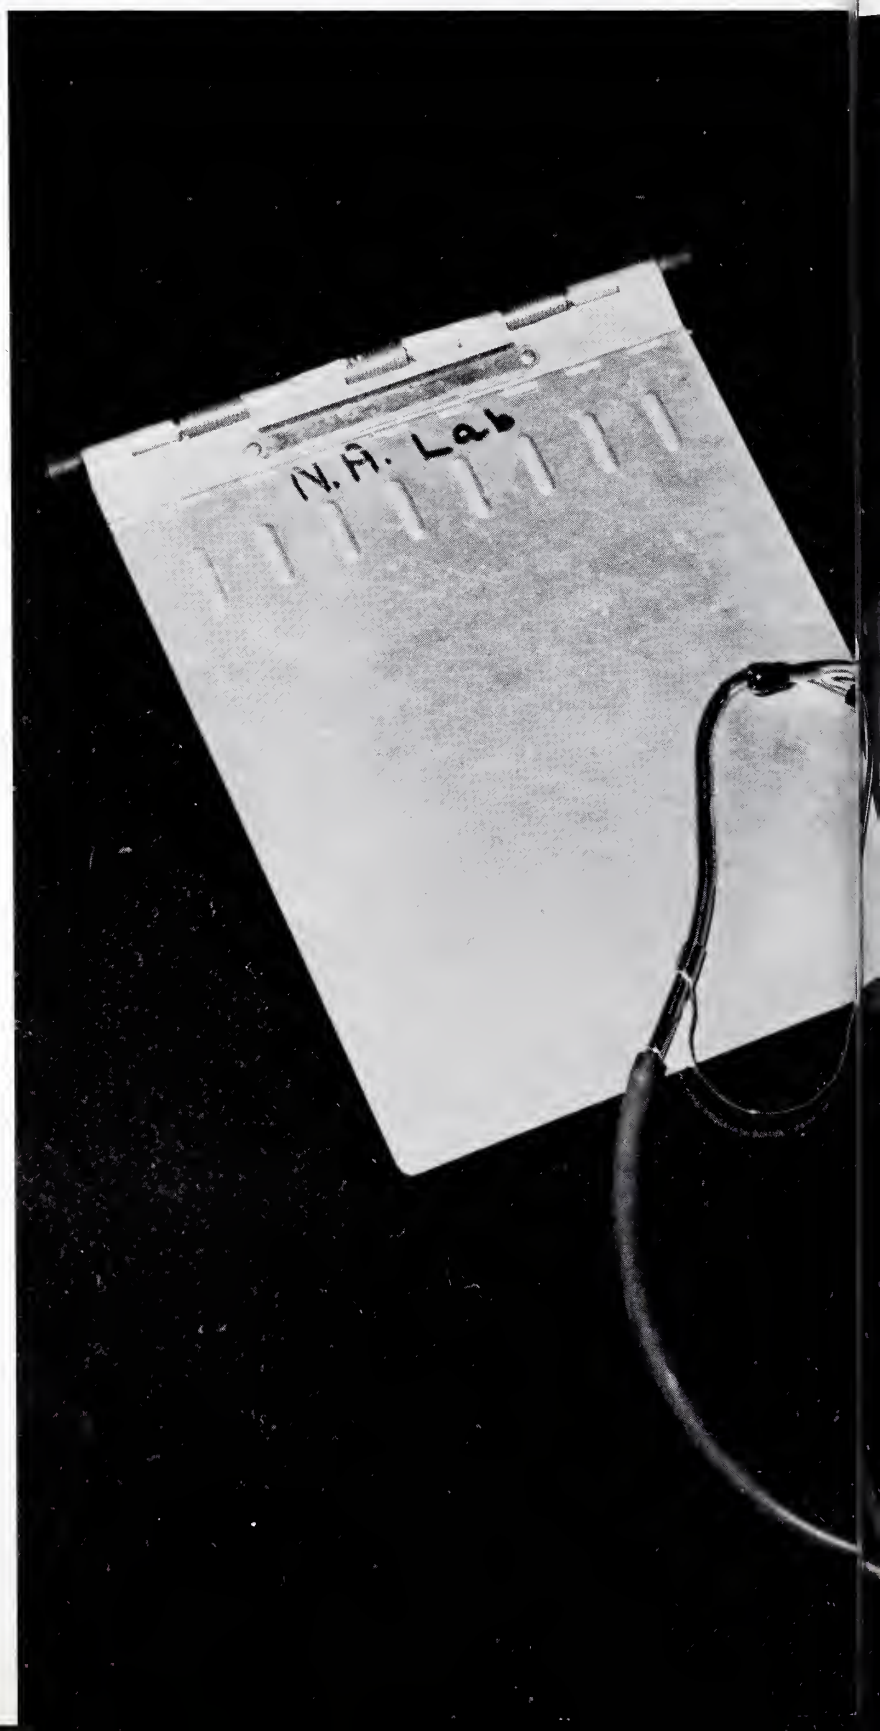
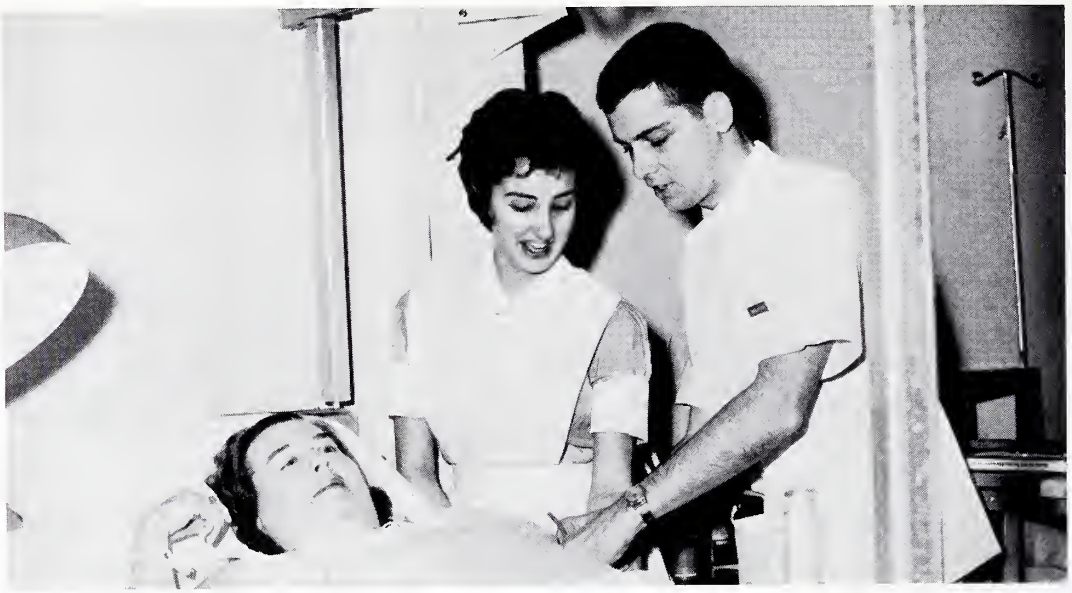
Out for a nice afternoon ride.

The usual study and gossip session.

SERVICES





One of our duties is to assist in starting intravenous fluids.

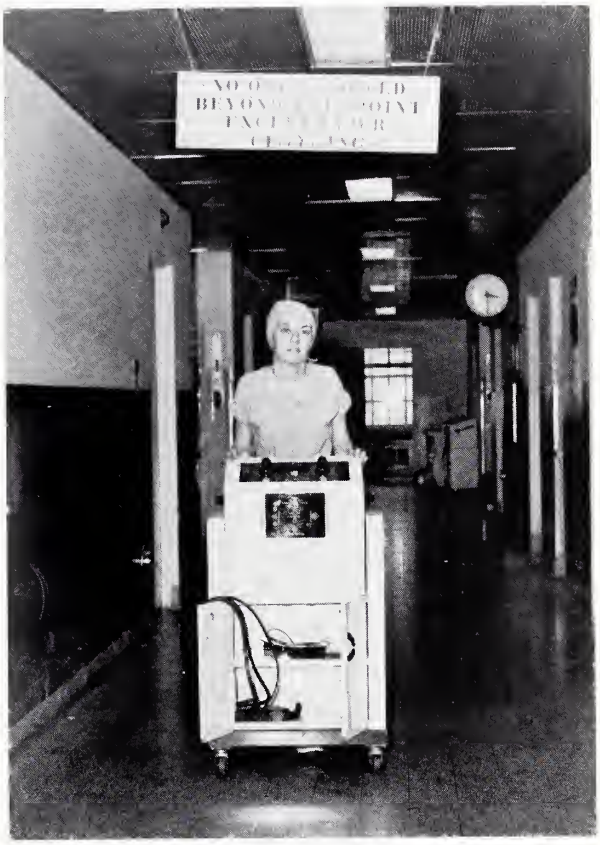
MEDICINE

On the medical unit the student assists with the numerous tests, which fit together piece by piece to spell out the diagnosis. She sees the gradual, yet steady, progress toward recovery by the knowledge and skills of the internists.

A most vital task.

New orders being reviewed with the students.

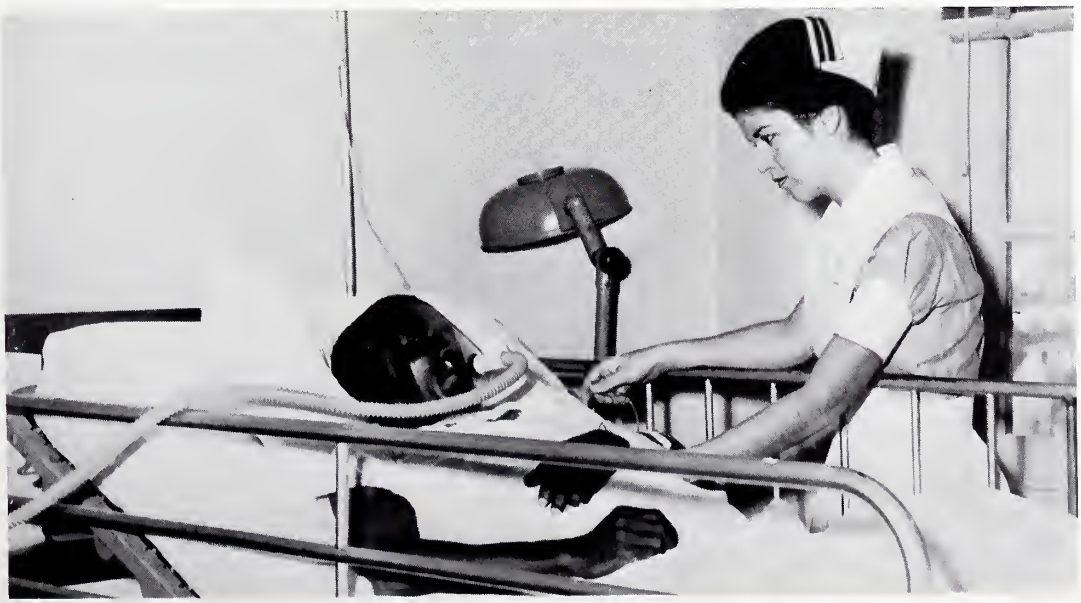
Reassurance and friendliness are important to relieve the tense moments on admission.



Surgery, a turning point.

SURGERY

The student finds on a surgical unit that the patients need excellent physical nursing care, as well as a good deal of emotional support in overcoming the setback often encountered with surgery.



Close observation is imperative with the post-operative patient.

Feeding time.

OBSTETRICS

The rotation on OB-Gyn brings to light many and varied feelings in the student, for here she learns about herself. She soon learns that careful observation and a quick step help to keep OB running smoothly. She also learns that the GYN patients enjoy a slower pace and a friendly way.

Speed is necessary in preparation for a delivery.

God has created a new life.

This may be frightening to both child and parent.

Our most delicate patients.

PEDIATRICS

Pediatric nursing is challenging, not only because it encircles all other aspects of medical and surgical nursing, but also because the student has to combine her knowledge of growth and development with the nursing care of each individual patient

Many hours are spent in the playroom.

Occupational therapy plays an important part in psychiatric treatment.

PSYCHIATRY

On affiliation at the South Carolina State Hospital, the student learns more about herself, and, therefore, is better able to understand others. It is on this affiliation that she learns the importance of communication between human beings. For those patients at this hospital, who have lived apart from the outside world so long, communication is a most vital necessity in their long struggle back to recovery.

The clinical area and its appearance can mean a lot to the patient.

Two way mirrors and T. V. are often useful in observation of our patients.

PINEHAVEN

This hospital, which specializes in the treatment of tuberculosis patients, affords the student more time to spend with her patients, as the days here are not so complicated with treatments and procedures. Here she gains knowledge to dispel false beliefs, and learns the social, economic, and emotional involvement accompanying the disease.

EMERGENCY ROOM

In the emergency room the student nurse must accept responsibility without hesitation, but she must be cautious, as always in giving immediate treatment. Instant attention is a necessity.

"When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things." 1 Corinthians 13:11

The preceeding pages of this book have unfolded to you the growth of a professional woman. We have tried to recapture the highlights of the period which have lead to the shedding of the sheltered cloak of the student nurse to the donning of the white cap of the professional nurse. It is not the white cap which has molded the character of this young woman, but that period preceding it's first wearing. And now, armed with powers of the spirit and of the heart--kindness, gentleness, knowledge, and dedication as her daily instruments--she steps forward to render service to humanity.

I sincerely hope, that as you use the tools of your profession while administering to others, you will recall through the pages of this Tres Anni the steps you took toward the donning of your white cap.

Miss Chamberlin,
To say "thank you"
would not fully express the sincere gratitude I feel in my heart for you—
not only for what you are but for what you are made of me. Bless you.
